

Sex Workers' Rights Approaches to Human Trafficking:
Addressing the Need for Public Policy Reform and Challenging Misinformation

Thursday May 3, 2007 5- 8 PM

At

UC Berkeley Labor Center
2521 Channing Way
Berkeley, CA 94720-5555
(510) 642-0323

<http://laborcenter.berkeley.edu>

Panel speakers:

- Maxine Doogan, Erotic Service Providers Union
- Carol Leigh, Bayswan
- Melissa Gira, Desiree Alliance, St. James Infirmary
- Prof. Jennifer Chaón, UC Davis School of Law
- Prof. Grace Chang, UC Santa Barbara, author of Disposable Domestic
- Kathleen Kim, Stanford University Immigrants Rights Center
- Fu Yu, Nursing Student, masseuse and raid survivor
- Jill Brenneman, SWOP East

“In light of the ICE raids on immigrant communities and the discussion about immigration reform, I believe it is in our best interest to platform a frank discussion about prostitution and immigration from a labor, human, and civil rights perspective as a means to bring awareness to how the criminalization of immigration and prostitution laws are being conflated and used as a means to practice institutionalized xenophobia and sexism with a particular focus towards a shame-based, sex-negative stereotyping.”

-Maxine Doogan, Erotic Service Providers Union

Sponsored by UC Berkeley Labor Center

Endorsed by Erotic Service Providers Union (ESPU), Sex Workers Outreach Project (SWOP), Bay Area Sex Worker Advocacy Network (BAYSWAN), Sex Workers Across Borders (SWAB), Desiree Alliance (DA), Berkeley Commission on the Status of Women

For more information about this event contact: Maxine Doogan 415-265-3302 info@espu-ca.org